Daylight Tremor

On that Spring Day

Verse One

I heard you on that Spring day
Wondering around, not much to say
I walked down, to the water's edge
But I'm not ready to hold my breath
For so long

Verse Two

Cities rise and blur my heights
What can I see between the leaves?
A gentle breeze through your hair
Is all I need to keep me there

Verse Three

I heard you on that Spring day
Wondering around, not much to say
I walked down to the water's edge
But I'm not sure if I can hold my breath
For so long

In the City

Verse One

When you no longer see the sun
And you no longer hear anyone
Then you'll know which way to go
Then you'll know which way is home

Chorus

You walk out, like never before
You call out, always through the door

Run your hand along the street, the cracks go so deep
Run your hand through the air, thick with despair
The spies behind the walls, care not at all
For the colour of your hair, because theirs is none at all

Chorus

You walk out, like never before
You call out, always through the door

At the Station

Verse One

There's already believing
Because you're ready to leave this

Chorus

Down by here, at the station
Down by here, because you're so far to

Verse Two

Now, all around us is fleeting
See, the streets are bleeding

Chorus

But it's calling for you, to be back
It's calling you, to be back

Verse Three

So goodbye, to this city
Goodbye, to this town

Chorus

It's just so cruel, cruel to you
It's just so cruel, cruel to you
It's just so cruel, cruel to you
It's just so cruel, cruel to you

By the Sea

Verse One

Singing around, playing around
Down by the sea
Your bright eyes reflect the sky
And all you see

Chorus

Hot chocolate by the sea
Where all your daydreams can be

in a little house in a little street
Down by the sea
And in this little town you twirl around
Our smiles meet

Chorus

Hot chocolate by the sea
Where all your daydreams can be
Hot chocolate by the sea
Where all your daydreams can be

Outro

Singing around, playing around
Down by the sea
